SEVERE STORMS AND BLIZZARDS SWEEP OVER THE COUNTRY

THIEVES REWARDED BURGLING A HOME

Property Valued At Nearly $1,000 Confiscated From Residence of B. F. Forsythe, a Shoe Merchant, of Monongahela, Monday

DURING ABSENCE OF FAMILY

Police of Monongahela Believe Job Is Picked Off By Amateurs, And a Police Patrol Is Being Maintained in Hill District While Clues Are Investigated

Monday night the home of B. F. Forsythe, a Monongahela shoe merchant, was entered by burglars and about $800 worth of jewelry and other valuables were confiscated. At the time the robbery was committed, the members of the household were in attendance at a moving picture attraction, it is said.

Among the articles missing is a diamond ring, the property of Mrs. Hugh Hampton, daughter of Mr. Forsythe; two strings of pearls, a stickpin, a cameo ring, a camera, and a small sum of money.

The robbery was discovered when members of the household returned from the theatre and found that the house had been ransacked. Cupboards, dressers, closets, and places where jewelry or valuables were likely to be kept, were thoroughly searched, and the contents of the compartments strewn about in promiscuous manner. Silverware and the furnishings of the house were carefully examined, but none of these valuables was taken, giving belief to the opinion that the thieves were in quest solely of jewelry and coin of the realm. The robbers were diligent in their investigations, and it will take some time to determine the collective loss sustained and the articles stolen.

Deduction on the part of the family and the officers of the law are to the effect that the thieves entered the home by way of the outside cellar entrance, as a light was found burning in this portion of the residence when members of the Forsythe family returned home.

The case of burglary is similar to that perpetrated on the house of George B. Sorrick of Monongahela, where jewelry and valuables were confiscated. At the time of this burglary Mr. and Mrs. Sorrick were in the East. The police hold to the opinion that those responsible for the robbery on Monday night, had a hand in the Sorrick burglary. The minions of the law believe that these robberies were committed by amateurs, and a police patrol is being maintained in the hill district of the city, while clues to the thieves are being investigated.

Brothers Are Charged With The Whipping Of Their Neighbor

A juror withdrawn by the court in the case of Steve and Carl Stanlack, brothers, of Bentleyville, which was called yesterday afternoon before Judge James I. Brownson, because of a remark made by a witness for the commonwealth on cross examination. The case is continued to the next term.

The brothers are charged with aggravated assault and battery alleged to have been committed on a neighbor, Jos. Zula, last summer. Joe Zula, who resides in the next house and works in the same mine charged that they set upon him and beat him with steel knuckles.

The case occurred on June 19, 1923. The prosecutor stated on the stand that one of the brothers had been drinking and that when he, Zula, told the mine foreman this, the defendant was refused admission to the mine on that day. Zula says that this made them sore at him, and he was passing a pile of ties on his way home that evening they set upon him and beat him very badly.

RINGNECK PHEASANTS ARE RELEASED

Towanda, Feb. 20—(United Press)—A large number of male ringneck pheasants have just been released in various parts of Bradford county by Game Protector McCabe in an effort to restock this section. A closed season movement is on foot to protect them.

MAN HELD IN SHOOTING CASE

Samuel Lynch, of H. Man... well-known colored coal miner, is a prisoner at Monongahela awaiting the outcome of shot wounds alleged to have been inflicted by him on the person of John McFally, who is a patient in the Monongahela Memorial hospital. On Sunday, McFally and Lynch became engaged in a fight when Lynch, it is said, drew a revolver and discharging the gun into McFally's left leg. Blood poisoning developed and the wounded man is in a serious condition. Lynch was arrested later and at a hearing held Monday before Squire Crompton of Gallatin, Allegheny county, Lynch was ordered held pending the outcome of McFally's injuries.

REV. MONTGOMERY, NOT THE "REV. MITCHELL"

Inadvertently the Mail yesterday, in publishing the account of a call extended to a preacher, recorded the name as the "Rev. Mitchell." The divine is the Rev. Montgomery, now living in Clarion, Clarion county, Pa.

Chestnut Tree That Measures 27 Feet Wide

Harrisburg, Feb. 20—(United Press)—The famous Washington Horse Chestnut tree in Northampton county near Bath, is recommended by Dr. Hlick of the Department of Agriculture as being one of the best survey of Pennsylvania trees for the "hall of fame" to be the first so marked as to distinguish it from other similar trees.

Dr. Hlick explains this is no ordinary tree at that. It measures 27 feet 7 inches in circumference at the base and is believed to be the largest horse chestnut tree in North America.

According to legend, it was presented to General Brown of Revolutionary fame by George Washington, in the form of a sapling from his home in Mount Vernon. It is one of the natural wonders of the Lehigh Valley today.

THIBETAN BANDITS STORM BATANG

Pekin, Feb. 20—(United Press)—Large forces of Tibetan bandits under the Nanka Lama have stormed Batang, murdering petty district officials and threatening the foreign population. M. Perrone, French merchant in Mtuntze, says in a telegram to the United Press.

The first attack was beating off by citizens, unaided by the Chinese garrison, the telegram says.

Later the bandits returned again and there was heavy fighting before they were forced out of the city.

The Nanka Lama, in retreat, sent back a prisoner with this message: "I will return with reinforcements and level the city if necessary for we are determined to annex it to Tibetan territory."

"Foreigners will not be harmed."

Winning a glorious victory over Monessen High, leaders of Section V, Coach Stepanian's team came back in wonderful style last night, at the High School gymnasium, before a crowded house. The score was 21-16. While the loss of the game does not endanger Monessen's chances of representing the Section in the finals it must be said that victory over a Monessen High School team is always very acceptable regardless of what is at stake.

The game was fast and while many fouls were called there were very few of them personal. The spirit manifested by both teams was very sportsmanlike. This helped make the game more interesting from the spectator's point of view.

Shepherd and Wagner played well and were most ably assisted by Capt. White, Hill and Anthony. They seemed to have the ways and means of penetrating Monessen's five-man defense which bothered them so much at Monessen.

Sichi and Dale played well for the visitors.

The game was handled in a fine manner by "Buck" Baird, whose work is always satisfactory to basketball followers in this section.

Charleroi closes its league schedule Friday at Monongahela City. One or two games may be arranged for the following week, which will be played away.

The lineup:
Charleroi High Monessen High
Wagner.....F.....Sichi
White.....F.....Destefano
Anthony.....C.....Kent
Shepherd.....G.....Dale
Hill.....G.....Seleprak

Referee—"Buck" Baird.

Scoring—Field goals: White 1; Anthony 1; Shepherd 2; Sichi 2; Dale 1. Fouls—Wagner, 4 out of 8; Anthony, 0 out of 3; Shepherd, 2 out of 4; Hill, 1 out of 1; Sichi, 5 out of 12; Destefano, 2 out of 5; Kent, 1 out of 3; Briggs, 0 out of 1; Dale, 0 out of 2. Seleprak, 2 out of 2.

Final score 21-16.

Referee—"Buck" Baird.

RIVER RISING BUT BOATS ARE RUNNING

Charleroi folk and people of this community are experiencing the most prolonged and severe rain and snow storms of the winter. Traffic is particularly impeded, but train and street car service, while belated, at times, pretty well maintain their tranquility. The Monongahela river is rising at the rate of seven-tenths of an hour, but thus far river traffic is unimpeded. United Press reports from various sections of the country, a partial list appended herewith, is indicative that storms and blizzards are the usual, not the unusual, and that not only traffic is impeded, but suffering is entailed.

People in lower McKean avenue and at the Lock are warned to prepare for a 20-foot rise, we are informed; to protect their cellars and premises.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 20—The worst storm of the winter gripped Western Pennsylvania today.

Roads were blocked with ice and snow and there was much delay in train and street car service. Wires were heavily coated with ice and telephone and telegraph service was demoralized.

Mrs. Hilda Holzinger, 72, died while fighting her way through a sleet storm last night. Two other persons were injured.

Interruptions to electric light service was reported in many suburbs of Pittsburgh.

Philadelphia, Feb. 20—(United Press)—Philadelphia waded to work this morning through a sea of slush which was knee-deep at street crossings.

The winter's first real snowfall of yesterday turned into a driving rain early today, virtually flooding the streets and sidewalks with the slush. An army of one thousand men are working frantically to clear sewers so that the water can run off.

Wilkes Barre, Pa. Feb. 20—North-eastern Pennsylvania was in the grip of the worst storm of the winter today. A high wind, driving a heavy snow which turned into sleet early today crippled communication and hampered transportation. Many mines were unable to open this morning.

New York, Feb. 20—(United Press)—An army of 2,000 hastily recruited men today battled with New York's first real blizzard of the year.

Sleet and snow, driven by a gale which swept this section throughout the night, left a trail of thoroughfares blocked with drifted snow, suburban highways almost impassable and train schedules delayed.

Emergency calls, sent to the municipal lodging house and cheap bowery hotels, yielded hundreds of men to aid regular street department workers, who were finding it impossible to make any headway against the storm.

Today college men from Columbia University, and other schools here joined the army of snow fighters.

At an early hour street cars were running intermittently, while automobiles were having trouble getting through the principal streets, which motorized snow plows were making attempts to keep open.

Home Is Built For Purpose of 'The Great Idea'

The "Most Perfect House in America" will be depicted through the courtesy of Robert S. Coyle, manager of the Coyle theatre, and by the instruction of the Commercial Union of Commerce, at the Coyle theatre on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, the idea being in "The Great Idea" films to give light to people of the borough and the community on how they may acquire their own home, and thus escape the harassing conditions ever increasingly attendant of "renting a place to live."

The home was erected in Glen Ellyn, Illinois—a town about twenty miles west of Chicago—and the movie camera of the Atlas Educational Film Company was kept constantly on the ground, watching every phase of its construction. The film finds its major interest not alone in the fact that it portrays building materials the hardest contest of the season for but more especially in the fact that it answers in a very charming manner the money questions, which confront the prospective home builder.

The entire story centers around the theme of the boy and the girl who want a dog and cannot have one—all because there is a landlord. Things become more than one family on the road to home-ownership.

Seated comfortably in your chair at the theatre, you will be able to witness the entire procedure of financing and building a home. If you are not the owner of a home you will receive from this film many valuable suggestions on its furnishing and equipment. If you desire to build and are puzzled as to the best materials and equipment to use, the film is of no less value. If you are undecided whether to rent or to build, the film will help you to decide.

COAL COMPANY FILES MORTGAGE

Containing 673 printed pages the Carnegie Coal company of Pittsburgh, with big holdings in this country, yesterday filed with the recorder's mortgage of $7,500,000 given to the Colonial Trust company of Pittsburgh, to secure first mortgage six per cent sinking fund serial gold coupon bonds. The mortgage covers among other things these properties:

Atlas, Cedar Grove, Patterson, Arnie, Louise, McDonald, Primrose, Oakdale, Vermer, Hickory and Carnegie mines, field of way, Burgetts-town, Wabash, Scotts Run and Buffalo Creek tracts, all in or adjoining this county. Also properties in the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin. The mortgage is indexed in detail in a manner similar to a book. It is bound in one big volume. It cost $337.50 to record it.

Allentown, Feb. 20—(United Press)—So rapidly is the herd of Bison growing that the weeding out process has become necessary and the first to fall was an old bull weighing a ton and a half.

DONORA HERE ON SATURDAY

The Grand Five of Charleroi have succeeded in booking the Donora School to play at the High School gymnasium, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

This game will be, without doubt, the hardest contest of the season for the Grand Five, as the Donora team has been strengthened by addition of former Donora High School players.

The Grand Five will be down to old-time form Saturday with "Jiggers" White, captain of the High school team, in line. "Jiggers" has played two games with the Grand Five, which was before the High School team started playing. Now, that the High school season ends Friday, he will appear with the Grand Five henceforth.

George W. Might's Newsboys will play the preliminary, but as yet they have not booked a team to meet them; however announcement will be made later. This game will start at 7 o'clock. Tickets can be secured from the members of the team, or at the Grand Billiard parlors. Admission will be 25 cents for adults, and 10 cents for children.

Demonstration of Public School Music Will Be Given At the High School Auditorium On Thursday Evening At 8 O'Clock

60 CHILDREN TO TAKE PART

Program Will Consist of Part Singing, Rote Songs, Tone Imitation, Drill on Time Motions And Several New Problems Presented For First Time

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, Prof. Braman will give a demonstration of Public School music at the High School auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend. The music is furnished by the music department of the Ninth Street school.

The program will consist of part singing, rote songs, tone imitation, drill on time motions and several new problems will be presented to the children for the first time. About 60 children will be present and appear in different parts of the program.

The most interesting part of the program will be melodies to be sung at sight by pupils of the various grades. The melodies will gradually become more difficult, and it will be interesting to see the manner in which the children read them.

The grade orchestra will render a program before the demonstration. The program for the evening:

Song, "America," School.
Selection, "Lola Waltz," Ninth St. Orchestra.

Biography, Stephen C. Foster, Julia Lido.

Song, "Swanee River," School.

Folk Dances, Grade One.

Selections, "Questions," "Song of Songs," Mixed Chorus.

Violin Duet, "O Sole Mio," William Mitchell, Vincent Lee.

Rote Songs, Grades 1, 2 and 3.

Vocal Solo, Selected, William Lange.

Piano Duet, "Humoresque," Thelma Bucy, Cleve Wessill.

Selection, "Massa's In the Cold, Cold Ground," Mixed Chorus.

Songs, "Just Smile," "Babbling Brook," School.

Selection, "Cupid's Heart," Orchestra.

Intelligence of Indian
Elephant Illustrated

The real test of animal intelligence, according to Mr. Samuel A. Derieux in the American Magazine, is the ability to grapple with a situation for which neither training nor instinct has prepared. Here is a good example:

A traveler of the name of Tenant was once riding horseback along a road in India, on both sides of which grew a dense jungle. Suddenly his horse shied violently, and Mr. Tenant saw coming toward him a huge elephant unattended and balancing on his tusks a heavy timber that he was evidently carrying from a sawmill to the shipyards. The timber filled the road from side to side, and Mr. Tenant could not possibly pass.

Suddenly the elephant, seeing horse and rider, stopped and turned aside. Then he backed a short distance into the jungle and, leaving room for horse and rider to pass, snorted out his directions that they should go on. But a horse is terribly afraid of an elephant, and Mr. Tenant's horse continued to rear and plunge; the man himself, interested to see what would happen next, did not force him to pass.

Then the elephant, seeing the horse reared and plunged, still the horse reared and plunged. At last the elephant laid the piece of timber down end, pushing hard against the undergrowth, disappeared. Then Mr. Tenant rode past.

A short distance down the road he reined in and looked back. The elephant came out of the jungle, picked up the timber with his tusks, balanced it with his trunk and, turning it round in the road, went on his way with loud snorts of indignation and disgust.

Havana Motorists Keep Cars in Front Halls

There are many strange sights for the tourist to see in Havana, but perhaps one of the most surprising comes when he visits a Cuban home and sees the family automobile in the front hallway.

In all of downtown Havana, with its population of some 400,000, space is at a premium. Streets are narrow and houses are joined together and are flush with the sidewalk. When the automobile came along many families who could afford one did not feel able to pay garage rent, or did not care to have their machine kept blocks or even miles away.

Practically all of the front entrances have wide double doors, and so the cars found parking space indoors, usually near the staircase. They can be seen in scores of homes, but the oil cans, extra tires and greasy cloths usually found in an American garage are tucked away out of sight.

"Mississippi Dragons"

Two devil-like monsters painted and carved on the face of a cliff 50 feet above the Mississippi river near Alton, Ill., were discovered by the French explorers Marquette and Joliet in June, 1673. They were known as the "Pisana petroglyph" to archeologists and were commonly called the Mississippi dragons. They were ranked as the finest example of early Indian art, and many legends were told to account for them. Marquette described them as being "as large as a calf, with horns on the head like a deer, a fearful look, red eyes, ventrals like a tiger, the face somewhat like a man's, the body covered with scales and the tail so long that it twice makes a turn of the body, passing over the head and down between the legs, and ending at last in a fish's tail." The painting was in an almost inaccessible place on the cliff and remained there until 1856 or '57, when limestone workers quarried back into the bluff and destroyed it.

Radio in the Arctic

Daylight acts to disintegrate radio waves, or affects the earth's crust so that it "or some other undefined natural phenomena" absorbs them, experimental communication with stations in the frozen north has convinced K. B. Warner, secretary of the American Radio Relay league.

His experiments were made in a world-wide "check-up" to discover what was preventing contact during the five weeks of Arctic daylight between stations on this continent and the ice-bound ships of Roald Amundsen and Donald B. MacMillan.

Rent Old Homes for Weddings.

In Europe a new business has developed among those who became well-to-do during and immediately after the war. They have, as a result, bought up many fine homes, and to increase their incomes now they let these homes out to former well-to-do persons, who want the marriages of their children celebrated in the old homes. A good house, if it is big and has a good address, brings in many thousands in income in this way.

No Unfair Advantage.

Georgette—Oh, look, Ludwig, we are right under the mistletoe.
Ludwig—I know it, darling, but I couldn't kiss you now because it would be taking an unfair advantage of you. There will be plenty of time for that after we are engaged.

Love and Politics.

"So you never saw a man whom you would be willing to marry."
"I'll go further than that," replied Miss Cayenne. "I've never seen one I felt I could conscientiously vote for."

Magnetic Machine Lays
Nails Out for Packing

It is reported that a Swiss inventor has produced a machine that by magnetism arranges nails in parallel layers ready for packing. It works on the principle that all linear iron objects in a magnetic field arrange themselves automatically in the direction of the lines of force. The machine can also be used to arrange wire rods, hairpins, knife blades, pens and fish hooks. The packages to be filled by the machine may be the standard type of nail keg, wooden boxes or paper cartons. It is probable that the ten-pound cardboard package will supersede the old-fashioned nail keg, because it costs less, weighs less and is more convenient. The machine consists of two parts—parallelizing platform and a feed trough above it, which is fitted with a shaking mechanism. The articles to be packed are poured into the feed trough in lots of about 1,000 pounds, and, by the action of the shaking mechanism, are moved to the front of the trough, where they drop into the parallelizing platform. That consists of a tray, each side of which forms one pole of an electromagnet. The articles as they fall are drawn into the direction of the magnet at once in parallel lines.

Barbados Man Travels
10,000 Miles for Wife

The course of true love, famed for its failure to run smooth, has established a record in the case of W. Percy Emtage, electrical engineer of the Barbados, says the New York World. It carried him 10,000 miles.

Three years ago Emtage first saw Sheryl Peterkin, also of the Barbados, and set out to get an introduction. He succeeded and followed it with a proposal. Miss Peterkin said she would love to be his sister and then packed up and departed for Boston.

Both wrote, Emtage's letters were pleading; Miss Peterkin's friendly and encouraging. Finally she quit writing altogether. Her last letter explained he was a "nice boy, but—"

This was six months ago and Emtage decided Boston might be interesting. He went there. Miss Peterkin had gone to Los Angeles. Emtage went to Los Angeles, but she had left for San Francisco. He followed, but she had returned to Boston.

Cheerfully he started back across the continent, only to find she had quit Boston for Brooklyn. He found her there in the home of her uncle, Edward Pyle.

Then Miss Peterkin gave up. They were married recently in the Municipal building, New York.

Relics of the Bruce

A find of an interesting character has been made on the field where the famous battle of Bannockburn was fought in 1314, and where, it is claimed, Scotland won its independence as a nation. Three sharp-pointed wooden stakes in an excellent state of preservation have been discovered three feet below the surface on a piece of land formerly known as the Milton Bog.

This bog is referred to in the chronicles of the battle, history recording that King Robert the Bruce of Scotland had pits made in the bog and pointed stakes placed in them to stay the progress of the English cavalry, and it is a matter of history or tradition that this device proved to be very successful. These stakes, which were found standing upright in the soil, are regarded as genuine, and are now being treasured as historical records in the ancient town of Stirling.

First Leviathan Was Failure

The first attempt to provide transatlantic travelers with a vessel that, in size and magnificence, would be a floating hotel, was made in the building of the Great Eastern. The launching of this huge ship, for some time called the Leviathan, was commenced November 2, 1857, but owing to the difficulty of moving the enormous weight, the vessel was not finally adored until early in 1858.

The secret of managing so large a liner had not yet been learned, and the Great Eastern was from the first a white elephant to her owners. Her only real service was in the laying of Atlantic cables. She made her last voyage 35 years ago, and was then disposed of as junk. The pioneer Leviathan had a length of 692 feet and a tonnage of 27,000.—Detroit News.

Egyptian Stamps in Arabic Only.

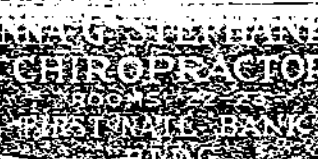

A new issue of stamps is in circulation in Egypt, but these stamps only show their value in Arabic characters. This is a great inconvenience to many people. Three-quarters of the foreigners in Egypt do not know how to read Arabic and thousands of tourists who cannot decipher Arabic characters yearly visit Egypt. Perhaps it will be urged that Egypt, like other countries, should have its stamps printed only in the national language, but the cosmopolitan character of the Egyptian population seems to give good reason for departing, in this particular, from the practice of other nations.—Christian Science Monitor.

Hitching Horseless Buggies.

thefts a small town in California has set up a row of concrete hitching posts on the main street for the use of motorists. When the farmers drive in for their Saturday shopping now they drive the car up to the hitching rail, as in bygone days, and chain the wheels to the nearest post.

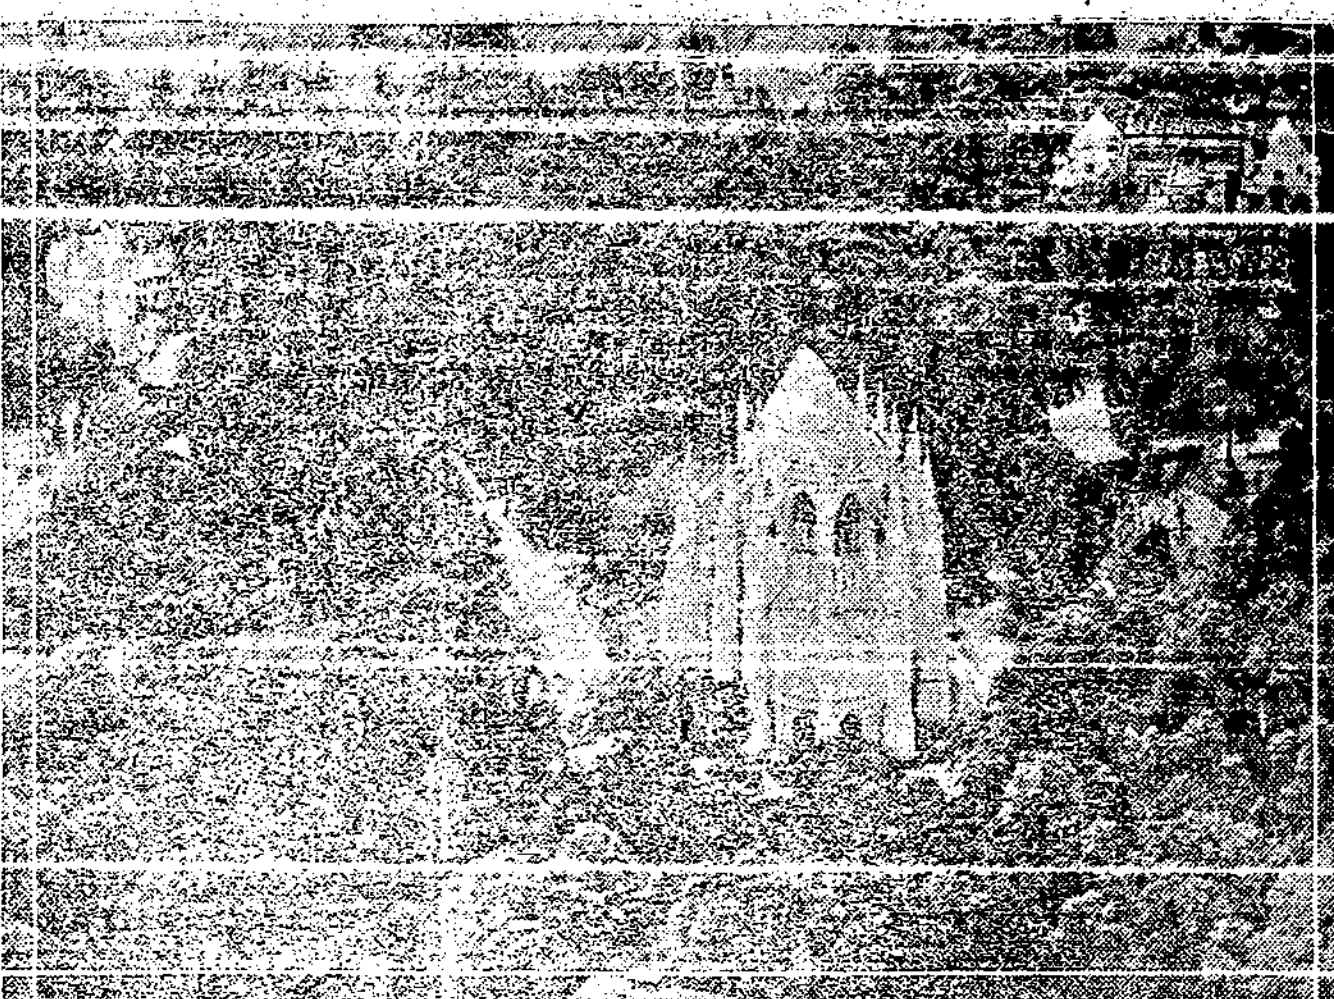

Colds are the result of an accumulation of poisonous materials in the body. Improperly functioning of excretory organs causes this. Chiropractic corrects the cause of abnormality—it restores the full force of vital energy from brain to tissue cell by releasing the pressure on the nerve fibers being interfered with at the only place—the spine.

FLINN'S BODY
EXPECTED FRIDAY

Pittsburgh, Feb. 20. — (United Press).—The body of William Flinn, former state senator, who died at the age of 78, in St. Petersburg yesterday, from pneumonia, will arrive here Friday, and funeral services are expected to take place Sunday.

Flinn, member of the contracting firm of Booth & Flinn, built the New York subway and the Hudson vehicle tube, and for many years took a leading part in state and Allegheny county politics.

Flinn's parents emigrated to America from Manchester, England, where he was born, when Flinn was one year old. He married while young, to Miss

WHERE WILSON'S BODY WAS LAID TO REST

Photo shows the nucleus of what is to be "America's Westminster Abbey"—the great National Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, now under construction on Mount Saint Albans, overlooking Washington, D. C., from the Northwest section. It is here that the body of Woodrow Wilson was interred. It has long been planned that the edifice, which is only one-eighth completed, should take the place in this country that the historic Abbey does in providing a last resting place for the great dead of England; and it is felt that a resting place for the late War President would be correct as the start of the plan.

LOCAL LITERARY

FOLK HOLD A FINE MEETING

Despite the prevailing bad weather, conditions a good attendance resulted for the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Gothic Literary society held in the Community room of the Elks club last evening. The subject of the evening was, "Washington, the Capital," and the program was carried out as follows: "What I Saw at Mount Vernon," by Frances Tompkins; Mrs. Sylvia Manon entertained with a piano solo, "Deux Polonaises," by Chopin; "Lincoln Memorial," by Irene Chester; "A Visit to Arlington," by Edith Woodhall. Two vocal solos were contributed by Elva Majors, "Little Woman in Gray," Carl Hahn, and "Daddy's Sweetheart." The program was highly enjoyed and was exceedingly interesting as well as instructive. The next meeting of the club, which will be the annual 'stunt night,' has been postponed until Tuesday, March 11.

During the business session a lengthy discussion took place relative to forthcoming play "The Commuters," a four-act comedy, which the club members are staging in the High School auditorium, Thursday, March 6. This play was originally presented in the Criterion theatre, New York, and is bound to meet with success in Charleroi. Almost daily rehearsals are now taking place under the capable supervision of James Russell. Tickets were distributed among the members last evening and it was decided to have them reserved, Monday, March 3, at 7 p. m., at Schroeder's Piano store.

Last night's meeting came to a close with the serving of luncheon in the dining room of the club, Misses Esther and Margaret Berryman officiating as hostesses.

NAME OF THE SECRETARY IS TAKEN FROM LIST

Washington, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—George B. Christian's nomination to be a member of the Federal trade commission was withdrawn from the Senate today by President Coolidge. C. Bascom Flump, the president's secretary, announced.

Christian requested Mr. Coolidge to withdraw his name. Christian's request for withdrawal followed the testimony by Houston Thompson, chairman of the commission, that Christian was of the opinion that he was not qualified to influence him with respect to complaint against the Famous Players Lasky Moving Picture concern. Christian was to have appeared late this week before the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission in connection with Thompson's testimony. Christian was secretary to the late President Harding.

TO BE ASKED TO QUIT IF ANYTHING IS PROVEN

Washington, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—Attorney General Daugherty will be asked to resign from the Cabinet if he is connected by a specific fact with the Teapot Dome oil scandal. Unless he is so connected by evidence turned in by the Senate committee his resignation is not likely to be asked for by President Coolidge.

This was the information from reliably informed quarters today. At the same time it was indicated Daugherty was preparing a statement relating to sensational charges made in the Senate late yesterday by Senator Wheeler, Montana, author of the resolution for Senate investigation of Daugherty's administration.

FUQUA LEADS FOR GOVERNOR

New Orleans, La., Feb. 20.—(United Press)—Henry L. Fuqua today piled up a heavy lead over Hewitt Bouanchaud in the race for nomination for governor in the count of ballots from Tuesday's primary. Returns from the entire city of New Orleans and 465 out of 1,082 county precincts gave a vote of Fuqua 81,352; Bouanchaud, 68,649.

Mrs. A. Kefover was hostess at the regular weekly meeting of the Tuesday Evening Sewing club last evening. The time was pleasantly spent in sewing and social converse, and a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, February 26, at the home of Mrs. Harry Barnhart of Fallowfield avenue.

The members of the Sewing Circle of St. Jerome's Catholic church met at the home of Mrs. William High in Fallowfield avenue last evening. Twenty members of the circle were present and a pleasant evening was spent in cards. Mrs. T. C. Dillon was awarded the favor. At the close of the meeting a delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. High, assisted by her daughter Ruth. Favors in keeping with George Washington's birthday were presented each guest. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Bezy, of Crest avenue, March 6.

HOPE TO SETTLE A WORKERS' STRIKE

London, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—The government opened its court inquiry into the strike of dock workers today and there appeared to be some hope the action would hasten a settlement.

Executives of the dockmen's union, however, were not optimistic, and said the strike had been intensified. Scores of ships lay idle in harbors, unable to discharge their cargoes. Food prices were mounting despite the government manifesto against gouging.

SLEET STORM CUTS OFF MANY TOWNS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 20.—(United Press)—The United Press resorted to radio today to get the world news to towns and cities in Southwestern Pennsylvania cut off from Pittsburgh due to the sleet storm last night.

Towns cut off from the outside world when wires failed, included Connellsville, Uniontown, Greensburg, Jeannette, Washington, and Brownsville. Condensed accounts of today's happenings were broadcasted by the United Press from station WCAE of the Pittsburgh Press. Persons getting this news were asked to turn it over to the newspapers of that town.

RAIN AND SLEET REPLACES SNOW

Harrisburg, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—Rain and sleet have replaced snow in the storm-swept southern Pennsylvania today. Highways and railroads are clouded with heavy sloppy slush. The William Penn Highway in Cambria county, 25 miles east of Johnstown, is impassable, the state highway department announced. The Lincoln highway was opened except for 20 miles stretch from Chambersburg from the peak of the first mountain from which there was no report.

GOING TO GIVE KING TUT A REST

Luxor, Egypt, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—The Egyptian government today cancelled a license under which Howard Carter is excavating the tomb of Pharaoh Tut-an-kh-amen in the Valley of the Kings.

The cancellation followed a bitter dispute between the government agents and the excavator and stopped the work by the Carter party just as the sarcophagus of the Pharaoh was being opened.

MOTHERS SHOULD WEIGH BABIES

Harrisburg, February 20.—(United Press)—Mothers should weigh their babies regularly, according to Dr. Dorothy Child, Philadelphia specialist, cooperating with the State Department of Health.

"It is easy for the doctor to judge by comparing hundreds of others but the mother must get her information from weighing," she said. The schedule is: twice a week for first month, then weekly until one year old. During second year, twice monthly. Weigh at same hour without clothing.

Average full term normal baby weighing between 6 and 9 pounds at birth should gain during the first six months at least 4 ounces a week. Birth weight should be doubled by the 5th or 6th month. At one year the weight should be a little over two and one-half times the birth weight; the rate and steadiness of gain more important than actual weight at any one time.

A MAN SHOOTS THIRTY FOXES

Stroudsburg, Feb. 20.—(United Press)—It is believed that Steward Smith of Kunkletown has the fox record for the season so far. He has shot his thirtieth.

Fred Kellner, Coudersport, recently brought 26 fox pelts into town and took home $245 in exchange. F. F. Crosby, Odin, sold nine and Snyder brothers of Sreedom Hill, brought in eight and five wild cat skins.

ENGLAND'S MOST CELEBRATED MEMORIAL

"Stonehenge" is a celebrated pre-historic monument, near Salisbury, England. The name is from the Saxon and means hanging stones. It has been called a Druid monument, a Roman temple, a place of early burial and sacrifice of human victims. The origin of Stonehenge has been placed all the way from 1500 B. C. to 400 or 500 A. D. The ruins consist of two circles and two ovals sometimes called horseshoes. The outer circle is about 300 feet in circumference, of upright stones, sixteen feet in height and about six feet in diameter, with others of similar size placed horizontally on their tops. The open part of the horseshoe faces the sunrise.

THE CONCERT.

Monday night's concert reflected truly what Charlevoi has in the way of capable musical artists. The citizenry of the borough have every reason to be proud of such an organization as the Charlevoi Choral society and its capable and efficient leader, Chester C. Humphreys.

When people enjoy a musicale, such as was given in the High School Auditorium on Monday night, they are apt, through enjoyment of the same, to judge that it was only through the dust of labor that the ensemble was enabled to "produce" even at hands of so talented an instructor as Mr. Humphreys. It redounds to the credit, therefore, of the chorus as a collective unit, and to Mr. Humphreys as a leader, that the ensemble has been enabled to arrive at such desirable ends.

It is not to be presumed that the auditors Monday night were so vested with musical talent and learning that they could comprehend and appreciate the fine points of a concert such as were in the Auditorium demonstrated. But all of them did and could appreciate the fact that they were listening to highclass music at a nominal price—music such as it seldom produced by local talent in a town of Charlevoi's proportions.

The Charlevoi Choral society is one of the best advertisements that borough could have. The members could appear before the best musicians of the city of Pittsburgh and acquit themselves withered that would call forth the most favorable comment. Mr. Humphreys and the members personally have worked hard, devotedly, and unselfishly, and will not be satisfied until the ensemble reaches even further heights in musical perfection. It is ours to encourage and foster in our midst such an musical organization, for in so doing we are not only giving to the membership further incentive for future endeavors, but evidencing in return that their honors will be ours in bringing enviable fame to Charlevoi as a musical center.

A MURDER UNSOLVED.

It is now upwards of a year that William Hope was shot down, and apparently the mystery of his killing is as far removed from solution as it was at the onset. Is the murder to be recorded as one of the county's unsolved crimes.

Irrespective of responsibility in the shooting of Hope, there is little question but that his shooting was unwarranted, and as an unwarranted crime, the zeal of detectives and officers of the law to arrive at solution of, and arrest the guilty, should be unabated.

Indications at the time and shortly after the tragedy were that slouts were on the trail of parties on whom the crime could reasonably be fixed. But nothing has come of it. If there is secret service work in the case that will bring about a denouement most any time, public interest and public sympathy are still such that this denouement cannot come too soon. Those guilty of the shooting of William Hope should be ferreted out and receive merited punishment.

SOME OPINIONS OF LOVE.

The Married Man—Love is an illusion of youth, which only time, a wife, and ten children will dispel.

The Bachelor—Love is a mythical emotion which was first foisted upon the world by a sap-headed novelist in need of "copy."

The Debutante—Love! Search me, I can't tell, but it's nice.

The Old Maid—Love is the heavenly reward of all who withstand the temptations of this life. If it isn't I've backed a loser.

The Cynic—Love is only experienced by fools and babies. Neither is qualified to give opinions.

The Married Woman—Love is like expensive face cream. It wears off quickly—but cannot be renewed.

The Chorus Girl—Love is an ideal way of getting ready cash and a sure way through a breach of promise suit to single happiness.

The Average Young Man—Love is the most expensive form of gambling with all the odds against the man.

All the World—Love is an emotion everyone seeks and no one is satisfied with when found.

MAKES STUDY OF LAUGHTER

Psychologist Declares That He Can Tell One's Character by the Vowel He Uses.

A well-known psychologist has been making a study of laughter, which he says differs in its indication of character by its vowel sound. Those who laugh in "A," he says, or make a sound like "A," are loyal to their friends, frank in their speech, fond of bustle and movement and of versatile characters.

People who laugh in "E" are seldom cheerful company because they are phlegmatic and melancholy.

Most children laugh in "I," and people who continue to laugh in "I" after they have grown to be men and women have childlike qualities. They are timid but affectionate, irresolute but candid and are always obliging and make a weak for others.

Apparently not very strong characters. People who laugh on the vowel "O" are often successful in life because they are not oversensitive. They do not worry about public opinion, and criticism slips off their backs like water off a duck's back. They are generous, self-confident and, in spite of their pusillanimity, usually liked and trusted.

Few people like laughers in "U." As a matter of fact, these individuals are very sparing in their laughter. Life for them holds little of fun and mirth.

Women used to talk about "My home, my children and my church." Now the topic of their conversation is "My dress, my hair and my shoes."

FEMINISTS, OR JUST FOLKS?

Cub reporters on city papers, according to women readers, love to turn their cynical vocabulary loose in articles about "lady legislators," "lady mayors" and others whom they conceive to be freak feminists. Unless somebody gets all the women mayors together, no one can know what sort they really are. But here is an actual interview—by mail—with one of them:

Two years ago Mary Paddock went to Florida. She had done her work, she felt, for two sons and four daughters to whom she had been both father and mother, were grown and gone out into the world. Driving south from Palm Beach she found what seemed the ideally peaceful spot in which she "might at least conscientiously indulge in a life of selfish ease with time to read and study and play."

"In the little village of Lantana, beside the still waters of beautiful Lake Worth, nestled a cottage. It was picturesque, inviting, yet secluded. Surrounded by palm trees and citrus trees surrounded and shaded it. It was scarcely nine miles from Palm Beach, yet Lantana was a quiet, tiny village, barely incorporated. A few weeks later I found myself the happy owner of the cottage. My daughter was with me. My one idea seemed about to be fulfilled; here I should find peace and pleasure, living a quiet, leisurely life in ideal environment."

"But alas! Before many weeks the mayor of the little town was forced to resign on account of ill health. I was persuaded to allow my name to appear on the ticket to fulfill the unexpired term."

"You know the outcome. I woke up one day to find that I was a full-fledged mayor. I can't say that I felt any happiness over the honor conferred upon me. But I decided to do my best to make a success of this new and responsible undertaking."

"A charter for a town of a few hundred inhabitants," Mrs. Paddock imagines, "is as weird and wonderful an instrument as the one under which New York's Tammany Hall rose to fame. And a mayor's work is absorbingly interesting, when aided by Lantana folks' spirit of co-operation."

Honey Bees After Stinging.

Honey bees die within a day or two, and sometimes sooner, after stinging. This is due to the fact that the "stinger" remains in the body of the person stung, and is torn from the bee with such injuries that the bee cannot live. Bumble bees, wasps and hornets do not die after stinging.

Electricity in China.

China, with its 400,000,000 people, has only 4,500,000 light sockets, as compared with the 500,000,000 lights in the United States. Its total electrical generating capacity is estimated at 280,000 kilowatts as against the 25,000,000 kilowatts here.

Earth's Water.

The amount of water within the crust of the earth is enormous, amounting to 555,000,000,000,000 cubic yards. This vast accumulation, if placed upon the earth, would cover its entire surface to a uniform depth of from 3,000 to 35,000 feet.

Good Suggestion.

Mr. Rush—"Say, there, attendant. I'm a busy man and can't wait any longer. Tell the doctor if I am not admitted in a minute, I shall get well again." Dr. Peek—"Ah! Good morning! Step right in at once."

Suspicious Evidence.

Dr. Sassafraz—"Well, Willie, what makes you think you have the chicken-pox?" Willie—"Sister just got over 'em and when I woke up this morning I found a feather on my pillow."

Regarded Salt as Sacred.

The Romans regarded salt as a sacred article of food, hence no other dish was allowed to be placed upon the table before the salt was in position.

Ben Franklin Used

Gypsum as Fertilizer

Gypsum, or calcium sulphate, is used both as an agricultural fertilizer and in the manufacture of portland cement. More than 50,000 tons of uncalcined gypsum are used annually by the cement industry, a small portion of the material being added to the clinker from which finished cement is ground. Gypsum is added to regulate the setting time of the cement, for without the gypsum the cement would harden so quickly that workmen would not have time to place it properly. As a fertilizer, gypsum was first used in this country by Benjamin Franklin on his farm near Philadelphia. The fertilizing elements of the material were discovered by accident by workmen near Paris, France, when it was noticed that the grass near where they shook their gypsum-covered clothes grew better than elsewhere.

Tripoli Is Called the Gateway to the Sahara

Tripoli is now under Italian rule and is called the "Gateway to the Sahara," and the caravan trade to and from the city through the desert is enormous. All goods are transported by baggage-camels, called in Tripoli faras. Faras, ostrich feathers, gum arabic, cloth from the Kano dreypts, rhino horns, leather, etc., are brought in in great quantities from various parts of central Africa.

The Sahara is peopled by several very fierce tribes called Tuaregs, who levy upon the caravans enormous taxes as tribute for safe conduct of the caravans through the desert. Nor does this always suffice; more times than a pleasant the caravans are raided, the personnel killed or captured, and all goods and animals taken.—Capt. Beverley Giddings, in Adventure Magazine.

Killing Birds Rapidly

Commercializing of wild game birds and wild animals during the past century has caused their number to decrease more than all the killing that had gone on during the previous years of the Christian era. WILD TURKEY LIKES TO SAIL

Wild turkeys use their wings more than is supposed; for going to and coming from the roost; when disturbed; often to come together from considerable distances; when changing their feeding grounds, and sometimes they will fly into tall trees apparently just to spy out the land. In mountainous country turkeys do a good deal of sailing down long slopes. This wild volplaning is a most beautiful and impressive sight downward and the rush of the wind through these makes a sound like a howling shrapnel. The speed is terrific, and it is checked by the birds gracefully swooping to one side ere they come to ground. On several occasions I have attempted to time such flight, having the birds in full view and knowing approximately the distance covered. Unless my estimate was wholly wrong, turkeys can volplane down a two-mile mountain slope in a shade over a minute and a half. Another fly of about three miles, including a dip to a distant ridge, seemed to be made in three minutes flat. But such speed, under the circumstances, is not extraordinary when we remember that a green-winged teal, along a straight river reach, has been timed at 100 miles an hour.

EXCHANGED PIPES FOR LAND

Three Hundred Were Part of the Price
William Penn Paid for Tract in Seventeenth Century.

Pipes in the Seventeenth century were largely made in Holland of pipe clay imported from England—to the disgust and loss of English pipemakers. In 1663 the company of tobacco-pipe makers petitioned parliament to forbid the export of tobacco pipe clay, since by the manufacture of pipes in Holland their trade was much damaged. The company's request was granted, but in the next year it again found it necessary to go to parliament, showing their threatened ruin because cooks, bakers and ale-house keepers and others made pipes, but so successfully that they were brought into disesteem, and requesting that none be allowed to follow the trade who had not been apprentices seven years.

During the latter part of the Seventeenth century English pipes were presented by colonists in America to the Indians. They subsequently became valuable as objects of barter or purchase value in exchange for land.

In 1667 120 pipes and 100 jew's-harps were given for a strip of country near Timber creek in New Jersey. William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania, purchased a tract of land, and 300 pipes were included in the articles given in the exchange.

The toll-keeper in a certain section of Alabama is an aged duncy. When, recently, a farmer of that district sought to pay toll by the offer of a dime, the coin was returned to him by the keeper with this state ment:

"Scuse me, boss, but I can't take dis dime. It's bent an' de county's got a strict rule agin our takin' mutilated coins."

"Indeed?" said the farmer, "Well, let me tell you that you gave me that very bent dime yourself in change yesterday!"

"May be, may be," murmured the old duncy, "Dere ain't no rule agin my handin' out mutilated money. It's only agin my takin' it."

A sportsman, being conceited about his fine figure, wore corsets to show it off.

One morning, riding to the moors, he was thrown from his horse. A gamekeeper ran to render assistance.

The first-aid man began to feel the fallen one all over to see if any bones were broken, and suddenly yelled out to a gillie:

"Run for a doctor. Here's a man's ribs runnin' north and south, instead of east and west."

An Official Criticism.

The Movie Manager—Good morning, ma'am. I asked you to call because I wanted your opinion on some of my features.

The New Censor—Well, to begin with, your forehead is too low, your eyes are not mates, your nose is too big and bulbous, your mouth is too large and flabby and you've little or no chin. Otherwise they will do very well. Is that all?

Pretty Soft, Eh?

During a discussion at a meeting of the historical society, upon the slight consideration attached to life by uncivilized nations, a speaker mentioned the extraordinary circumstance that in China if a man were condemned to death he could easily cure a substitute to die for him; and the debator went on, "I believe many poor fellows get their living by acting as substitutes in that way."

The World in Pictures

PROPOSED WILSON MEMORIAL

Mme. Marie Apel, well-known New York sculptress, is here shown signing the League of Nations Treaty, with the inscription above, "The World Must Be Made Safe For Democracy." At the top are four figures representing the four quarters of the globe, with joined hands, emblematic of universal peace. The ideals of the late President are inscribed on either side of the center panel. The finished statue is to be 27-feet high.

WORLD'S LARGEST BOMB

This monster was exhibited during the "Industrial Preparedness As Insurance Against War" dinner recently given by the War Department in New York City. The bomb, which weighs two tons, is almost 14 feet long and was developed by Army experts to be carried by Boeing Bomber planes. At Aberdeen testing grounds a test showed that one dropped from a considerable height made a crater 150 feet in diameter and many feet deep.

CZARINA'S BLACK PEARLS TO GRACE HER NECK

Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry, of New York, Washington and Providence, R. I., noted society woman who has just purchased the black-pearl necklace formerly worn by the Czarina for $400,000 from Prince Felix Youssouppoff. The necklace is described as the most perfectly matched string of pearls in the world, and each is as big as a marble.

M'GINNITY AND BRESNAHAN NOW WITH GIANTS

Left to right: Joe McGinnity and Roger Bresnahan, famous battery of the New York Giants of 1905, who have been hired by John McGraw to act as pitching coach and scout, respectively. Old timers will remember Joe McGinnity as "Iron Man," the first one in the baseball firmament to pitch a double header and win both, and then to make a practice of it. Bresnahan, former catcher of the Giants, has been called "Peerless" by McGraw, who believes there never will be another backstop like Roger.

SAFETY FIRST

ARMY PILOTS FOR ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIGHT TRAINING NEAR WASHINGTON, D. C.

Major Frederick L. Martin, U. S. A., commanding the U. S. Army squadron which will attempt to fly around the world this April, with his subordinate officers in the daring voyage, at Langley Field, Va., where active preparations for the flight are under way. Flying four Douglas cruiser planes, they will leave Langley Field early in April for Seattle, where they will hop off for the first over-sea leg, to the Aleutian Islands. Left to right—Lieuts. Erik Nelson, Leigh Wade, Lt. Claire Schulze, Major F. L. Martin, Lieuts. Lowell Smith and Leslie Arnold.

"Lady Admiral of the Fleet" Who Commands 300 Sailorettes

BOOKSTALL ATTENDANT AND CHIEF STEWARDESS, EMPRESS OF SCOTLAND

MRS. ETHEL ANDREWS

The modern ocean liner is a ship. She is young and pretty, with wonder ship, a combination of a fresh Scotch complexion and cluster about her ears. She selects and supervises all of the uniforms and even designed the attractive uniforms they wear, some with captain and other officers are the most important personages, the sailors of the gentler sex are much in evidence and very useful. Mrs. Ethel Andrews, now on a cruise to the Mediterranean on the Empress of Scotland, is not only social director of that big ship but is in command of the 300 women who serve in various capacities on the Canadian Pacific Railway's Atlantic ships. A bookstall attendant wears a blue uniform with brass buttons on the waist. When the Empress of Canada left New York recently on a voyage around the world, she was the first Canadian vessel to commence such a trip with a regular book store and experienced attendants as part of her equipment. She carried, also, a well equipped free library and the globe grinders have 1,000 volumes, many so that they can become well posted concerning a country before the ship reaches it. The books on travel were selected from an interesting list compiled by Fanny Fitcher, literary editor of the Chicago Tribune. This list has been published by the Canadian Pacific in a brochure entitled "Ports of a Thousand Romances." Canadian authors have been given due prominence in this floating library, and the world's "best sellers," modern and ancient, are pouring that world on its shelves.

CASH MORATORIUM

FOR GERMANY

Paris, Feb. 20.—(United Press).—Premier Poincare has approved in principle main suggestions of experts committee number one for rehabilitation of Germany so she can pay reparations, the Petit Journal declared today. These suggestions include:

- 1.—A cash moratorium for Germany.
- 2.—Creation of a German gold bank.
- 3.—Suppression of Franco-Belgian control of the Rhineland railways in order to permit an international society to take up the administration of all German railroads.
- 4.—Suppression of the Rhine customs barriers.
- 5.—An interior German loan in gold for the purpose of repatriating German capital.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother Jackie E. Murphy who died one year ago today, February 20, 1923.

Just a year ago today,
Since our dear Jack was called away,
Twas the hardest gift we ever gave.

But our Jackie went to Jesus,
Weary, tired and sad,
He found in Him a resting place,
For he has made him glad
The eyes that gazed upon him last,
Soon followed him to heaven
Dear Mom is with him now,
And he is happy in his home in heaven
Just a sweet remembrance
Just a memory fond and true
Just a token of affection,
And a heartache still for you.
Just a sigh of old remembrance,
And a love, both fond and true.
Just a tear in silence following,
And a heartache still for you.
Sighs missed by Mr. and Mrs.
James A. Murphy and family. 2181f

UNIQUE TYPES

AT THE MEETINGS

During the month of December the Rural Division of the Bureau of Education had the opportunity of participating in two educational meetings each unique in its kind. One of the 6th consecutive annual meeting of the County Directors Association of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, the other the seventh annual conference of the county superintendents of the State of Montana. The attendance at both meetings was exceptionally good. A high percentage of the total number of persons expected were present.

The Pennsylvania directors' meeting was held in handsome auditorium of the C. and County Building and attended by approximately 500 persons representing school boards of all the different classes of districts. Members of rural school boards, however, predominated. The subjects discussed concerned progressive movements in education with which school directors should familiarize themselves and the part of their respective communities.

Of the 55 county superintendents in Montana 30 were present at the conference.

The "zero milestone" stands just south of the White House, in Washington, on the ellipse of Potomac park. From this milestone is measured the distance along the national highways of the United States. The stone is of white marble, and on top is a bronze sundial.

Mistaken.

"John, John!" whispered a congressman's wife. "Wake up, I'm sure there are burglars in the house." "Burglars in the house?" he muttered sleepily. "Absolutely preposterous. There may be robbers in the senate, Mary, but not in the house. Absurd!"—National Republican.

Ancient Stone Axes.

Fourteen stone axes, recently unearthed on a farm property in Norway, are declared by experts to be examples of one of the earliest known forms of stone axes, dating from a period 7,000 years ago.

Sudan Grass.

From an eight-ounce package of Sudan grass sent to this country from Khartoum in 1909 what is now a $10,000,000 a year forage crop found in many states of the Union has been developed.

Ridiculous.
